YOUTH NIGHT SET FOR MAY 29 AS APOLLOS MEET AMERICANS FROM NEW JERSEY

The New York Apollos continue their quest for a second successive American Soccer League championship next Saturday night, May 29, at Hofstra Stadium against the New Jersey Americans.

Apollo management has declared the game Long Island Youth Night, and Mel Feinberg of Huntington, the club's Long Island Community Relations Director, announced the specifics: According to Feinberg, each player under the age of 19, who plays for a recognized club, school, or town youth team, will be admitted to the game free of charge.

"The only stipulation," said Feinberg,"is that coaches must accompany the team. Coaches can make arrangements beforehand by calling the Apollo offices at 516-365-8132. We're enthusiastic about having an excellent turnout."

As for the New Jersey Americans, they are an expansion team that is trying to field a winning combination with a majority of American players. Coach Richie Melvin has signed many college stars from the Jersey area, and Melvin hopes that enthusiasm and aggressiveness can overcome certain skill limitations.

Tickets for the 8:00 PM game are available at all Ticketron outlets, Steer Barn Restaurants, and the Apollo office at 1295 Northern Blvd. in Manhasset.
